Dr. William Barry, former member of the Loyola High School Faculty is Chairman of the Psychology Department at the University of Ottawa.

Bob Bedard won the men's single event at the Quebec Open tennis championships. There are two ways to view Bob's victory. On the positive side, the 42-year-old Bedard proved that he is still one of Canada's finest athletes. On the negative side, it points up the weakness of Canadian tennis. Bedard, a member of the Loyola Sports Hall-of-Fame, won a record eighth Quebec Open title at an age when he should be involved in strictly senior play. A native of Lennoxville, Bob is now Assistant Headmaster of St. Andrew's College in Aurora, Ontario. He described his tennis activities as "social tennis with my wife and kids".
